Will brighten the pathway we tread
Thou give us a sign of the beautiful ^{things}
That brought us regret and sorrow
Like fragrances that linger ^{about} ~~around~~ ^{about} ~~around~~
Their memory will still be a joy.

Ref. Sept 27th 65

November 27th 1865

Mr E D Bray
Sir

you will please to pay over to W C Warren the money you have collected on the Warren place since the settlement you made with my Father

Yours Respectfully
S. H. Shettleworth
E. M. Shettleworth

Old time as he buried the beautiful hours
That faded away by his side
Enchanted them all in bright leaves & flowers
And gave me one hint when they died
Their light fingers swept life's Eolian strain
Too softly, its soon to depart
But leaving a jewel that fell from their fingers
Is treasured away in my heart.

The Angels have woven the vision of
Of mystical sunshine & shade
Let us forget loss its sorrow & strife
And cherish its joys as they fade
And let us remember when we hold
To warm our chill hearts in his light
And treasure the brightness he gave
To etch our moments of love

Thus live in the dim twilight of When hope in our sad hearts is
The past like the light of a radiant
